 - No maze will be built this year; instead, the plan is to rent one from the same inflatable vendor we have used in the past. There will be two face painting booths, each offering a different style to add variety. While the arcade room will not be included this time, the dunk tank will still be featured and available at an additional cost—$1 for 1 throw, $2 for 3 throws, and $5 for 7 throws. A Dippin’ Dots vendor will also be present, and we are looking into securing food truck vendors to provide additional dining options for attendees. I would also like there to be a pumpkin carving contest, and maybe we can even sell custom harvest fest themed sugar cookies. Set up the white pop-up tent behind the stage for production, and another one on the basketball court to serve as a water station—plan for enough water for 500 people. Check on the possibility of serving cake or donuts after the ceremony from the same water station area behind the court.
